

Destruction of Temples

Temples are being destroyed. Tiny temples. As Catholics, we know our bodies are sacred because the Holy Spirit dwells in us. Unborn babies being destroyed in abortion facilities are temples and they are being destroyed. During Advent, we commemorate the Holy Innocents, the youngest and first martyrs who died for Jesus. These children were brutally murdered by Herod in his attempts to extinguish the new born King, Jesus the Christ. Tradition tells us the mothers of these children were tricked into bringing their babies and infants for a blessing only to have them ripped from their arms and murdered before their eyes. The anguish this must have caused is difficult and painful to contemplate.

The systematic murder of the unborn in this country is an ongoing brutality of more innocents every minute of every day. While you are reading this, approximately 30 babies will die from abortion. These aborted babies are not killed for Christ, rather, they are killed for the “other gods” of being unplanned, their possible infirmities, or simply for convenience. In essence, we are sacrificing children to other gods.

Starting in the summer of 2015, multiple videos were released showing the graphic inhumanity of how these tiny temples of the Holy Spirit are eradicated with no mercy, no human compassion, and absolutely no respect for their standing in God’s kingdom as being created in His image, created in Love, for Love. And they are gone, lost forever.

We will never know who these tiny temples may have been, what good they may have done for their fellow man. We will never know how many would be priests, inventors, doctors, husbands, wives, and parents themselves. We will never know what their contributions would have been. Just as we can never know who the Holy Innocents would have become. Some may have been future disciples of Jesus. How many would have become Jesus’s friends? The sheer magnitude of the losses of these Holy Innocents and the temples being exterminated in our modern day should bring us to our knees. We must do all we can, as Catholics, to stop this. We need to stand athwart history and say NO MORE! Please pray to end abortion.
