Note from Pastor:

I wish everyone a happy observance of MLK Day on Monday. I hope we are all able to take some time to reflect on Dr. King's legacy and the work we still have to do as a nation to realize his vision of a nation where people are truly judged by the content of the character, not the color of their skin. This includes work by members of the Church. Here is a statement from Cardinal Daniel DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston-Houston and President of the US Bishops' Conference:

Since the time of the founding fathers, our country has been blessed with citizens who have had the courage to rise above the challenges of their day and call their fellow citizens forward in the unending task of building an ever more just nation. Today, we celebrate such a citizen, Martin Luther King, Jr. His inspiration guides us as we seek to build peace in our communities under the recent strain of division and violence. Recently, USCCB's Task Force for Peace in Our Communities has examined and reported on how the bishops of the United States may improve their own contribution to this ongoing national effort.

While there have been real gains in our country, we must not deny the work before us to heal both old rifts and new wounds, including those created by the evil of racism and related mistrust and violence. Society cannot continue this work if its members are unwilling to engage in encounters of the heart that honestly immerse them in one another's lives. The Martin Luther King Jr. Day holiday provides a wonderful opportunity to examine how well each of us is doing in walking together with others in true encounter and solidarity.

Altar Society has placed Christmas Poinsettias down the side hall of the Church by the Sacristy for anyone who would like to take one.

Dr. King reminded us that our obligations to one another "concern inner attitudes, genuine person-to-person relations, and expressions of compassion which law books cannot regulate and jails cannot rectify. Such obligations are met by one's commitment to an inner law, written on the heart. Man-made laws assure justice, but a higher law produces love." On this national holiday, may we think prayerfully about the life and legacy of the Reverend Dr. King who directed his work toward both the structural and personal causes of racism. As he urged the nation from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial, "no, no, we are not satisfied, and we will not be satisfied until 'justice rolls down like waters, and righteousness like a mighty stream'" (Amos 5:24). ~Fr. Andy

Quiz Question Answer:

A) Church catechisms have used the Ten Commandments to teach morality (CCC,2065).
